

“The work is strong and startlingly lovely.”

Boston Globe

THE MUSIC OF CANADIAN-AMERICAN COMPOSER KARIM AL-ZAND (b. 1970) has been called “strong and startlingly lovely” (Boston Globe). His compositions are wide-ranging, from settings of classical Arabic poetry to scores for dance and pieces for young audiences. Many of his works explore connections between music and other arts, and draw inspiration from diverse sources such as 19th century graphic art, fables of the world, folksong and jazz.

Al-Zand has been the recipient of several national awards and prizes, including the prestigious Sackler Composition Prize, the ArtSong Prize composer and the Louisville Orchestra Competition Prize. He has degrees from Harvard University (Ph. D., 2000) and McGill University in Montreal, Canada (B.Mus., 1993). Al-Zand is also a founding member and vice-president of Musiqah (www.musiqahouston.org), Houston’s contemporary music group, which presents concerts featuring new and classic repertoire of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries.

The music of Karim Al-Zand has had performances by ensembles in the US, Canada and abroad, by groups such as the California E.A.R. Unit, the New Millennium Ensemble, Mendelssohn String Quartet, Third Angle Ensemble, Collegium Novum, New England Conservatory Camerata, Flux Quartet, North/South Consonance, Brave New Works, Pinotage, Indiana University Wind Ensemble and OrchestraX. He has been awarded three times in the Canadian SOCAN Competition; for Fantasy and Fanfare, Sonata and String Quartet. His two string quartets have received numerous awards including the 1997 Blodgett Composition Competition, the Salvatore Martirano Award (University of Illinois), and the Tampa Bay Composers’ Forum Prize for Excellence in Chamber Music.

While a fellow at the 2000 Oregon Bach Festival Composers’ Symposium, Al-Zand’s work Parizade and the Singing Tree was performed to critical acclaim. Other awards and fellowships include those from the Composer’s Guild, Collegium Novum, ASCAP, the Society of Composers Incorporated, the National Association of Composers USA, the June in Buffalo Festival, Wellesley Composers Conference, the MusicNinetySeven Festival in Cincinnati and the MacDowell Colony. He has received commissions from Harvard University, the Fromm Foundation, ALEA III, ASCAP/SCI and OrchestraX in Houston.

While in Boston, Al-Zand worked periodically as a jazz musician, both as a pianist and directing for two years the Dudley House Big Band, a 17-piece jazz ensemble he formed at Harvard University in 1994. One of his several compositions for the ensemble, It’s About Time, was awarded in the 1996–1997 Massachusetts Association of Jazz Educators (MAJE) Composition Contest.

In his scholarly work, Al-Zand has pursued several diverse areas of music theory, include topics in jazz, counterpoint and improvisation (both jazz and 18th century performance practice). He has also developed with Martin Shultz, an online ear training application, Hearing AID. His doctoral dissertation was entitled Theoretical Observations on Jazz Improvisation: The Solos of Julian ‘Cannonball’ Adderley.
